

C O R D O B A
Dove Shooting Capital of the World!

WE OFFER YOU GREAT CHOICES!

Dating back to the 16th century, Cordoba is rich with history. Dense forested hills and fertile valleys are the perfect atmosphere for doves (in the 20 million range). With a climate resembling South Texas, along with an elevation of 2,000 feet, the seasons are comfortable and enjoyable. Shotgun clearance involves one simple form (prior to traveling) with a gun fee paid upon arrival. Nothing could be easier. You can travel to Cordoba via Santiago, Chile or Buenos Aires, Argentina. From Cordoba, we'll take it from there, because as always, we've got the details covered.

The Detail Company is pleased to offer you these options from the following sterling outfitters.

Miles & Miles Outfitters

The Miles brothers operate two distinctive estancias with two distinctive personalities.

Estancia I is rustic, warm and inviting. Housed on former polo grounds, the polo fields are still meticulously maintained and provide the perfect setting for this ten-bedroom, eight-bath estancia. Separated into three buildings, each has its own sitting area and fireplace, making it perfect for larger parties. You will have no problem finding plenty of doves here. One former guest enthused, "I shot more birds in four days than I did in my ten years of hunting in Mexico!" With a down-to-earth flair for hospitality, Nick and Richard Miles love to show you a good time and are known for their legendary "asado" – a field barbeque of grilled beef, ribs, sausage, wildfowl, fresh bread and outstanding wines. This lodge is located just one hour north of Cordoba's international airport.

Estancia II offers access to several species of game birds and shooting styles on 5,000 acres of vast rangeland.

Nestled among olive groves, this quaint haven has four spacious bedrooms and is designed for smaller parties. Shoot doves, pigeons and perdiz in this enchanting area where you rarely have to leave the property. Relax, bring cards, dominos or just have a fun time with the Miles brothers who are exceptional hosts. For a special treat, a registered massage therapist is available, plus suburb cuisine here is a given. This lodge is one hundred miles north of Cordoba City.

The staff of The Detail Company has spent many pleasurable days at both of these first-class estancias and can vouch for the fact you will experience plentiful birds, fine dining and attentive service.

Manuel Lainez

Manuel Lainez has over 20 years experience hosting dove shooting programs. His two classic estancias, just ten miles apart, are exceptional.

Manuel's two estancias are surrounded by trees on expansive acreage. When The Detail Company President Jeri Booth first visited with Manuel and his partner Octavio Crespo, she literally found new friends. The white-glove, hands-on service exceeded her expectations. If you are looking for something upscale and private (no mixing of parties here), Manuel's lodges are definitely suited for you. Ideal for smaller groups and families, expect the royal treatment, because Manuel and his staff aim to please. Whether you are looking for an awe-inspiring view of the grounds from the tower room or just wanting the comfortable pleasures of home, Manuel's estancias will suit your tastes. Impeccable service, spectacular shooting, excellent food and wine – you will not be disappointed. Dove and pigeon shooting are year-round with no closed seasons or limits. Guests often shoot over a million shells January through September. Non-shooters can enjoy day trips to Cordoba for shopping, antiquing, golfing and more. A warm and gracious host, Manuel will see to it that you can't wait to come back. The estancias are one hour from the Cordoba airport.
